8 Germans Killed By French Soldiers In New Ruhr Riots

Crowd Fired Upon After Attacking Detachment—Poilu Official Assassinated—Declare State of Siege in Recklinghausen

Recklinghausen—Eight Germans are dead as the result of clashes with French troops in various parts of Recklinghausen district Sunday night. One French soldier and three Germans were wounded in a riot at Dortmund.

A state of siege has been declared in the entire Recklinghausen district in consequence of these disturbances.

Additional troops have been sent to preserve order at Buer, where a French army officer and a French civilian official were killed Saturday night and where excitement has been running high, resulting in renewed shootings.

CROWD ATTACKS GUARD

Of the Germans who met death, two were shot down while trying to escape from the gendarmes in the Buer disturbances. Five others were killed and several wounded on a Sunday night when a crowd attacked a French guard post. The eighth German was killed at Dortmund when a crowd attacked a French detachment.

Disturbances were renewed at Buer Sunday night when French gendarmes went to the home of a German suspected of being implicated in the assassination of the French officials.

Two Germans who were found there were arrested. They were being taken to a guard post when, according to the French reports, they tried to escape and were shot. This created an uproar in the town and within an hour the Germans began pouring into the streets despite the commanding general's order prohibiting civilians from being out after 7 p. m.

A crowd assembled in the town square and soon afterward several hundred Germans, mostly men, adapted to street-fighting guard posts where seven or eight soldiers were stationed.

KILL FIVE GERMANS

The Germans demanded the reason why the two men had been killed. The soldiers repeatedly ordered them away but the crowd refused to heed the warnings, the reports state, becoming more excited and finally attacking the house in which the guard was quartered. On being attacked the soldiers fired, killing five of the Germans and wounding several others.

Additional troops were ordered out and all the civilians were ordered to return to their homes, but it was long after midnight before order was completely restored.

SEARCH HOME

One of the two men killed in the earlier shooting had boasted to friends recently, according to French information that he was preparing to kill a French officer. When the gendarmes heard of this, in view of Saturday's assassinations they went to this man's house and began searching for him. His wife declared he had not been at home all day or the night before, but the gendarmes pursued their search and found him in a wardrobe with another man, a neighbor who also was suspected of being implicated in the shootings.

CHARGE FRENCH DID KILLING

London—The German government, says a Central News dispatch from Berlin, has issued an official statement declaring that the assassinations of the French officer and civilian slain Saturday night at Buer were French soldiers and not Germans as alleged by the occupation authorities.

METOMME—Mlle. Susanne Lenglen defeated Miss Carline McKane in the finals of the women's singles, 6-2, 7-5.

GRAU HOPING TO REACH CITY FOR ADDRESS

Greater Appleton Dinner Will Take Place Tonight As Scheduled

Weather conditions to the contrary notwithstanding, the Greater Appleton dinner and the annual meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce will take place at Elk hall at 6:15 Monday evening. A telephone call from Phil Grau in Milwaukee, the speaker of the evening, gave definite information that when the first train comes through from the southern city, the speaker will be on it.

The annual business meeting of the chamber will be called after the dinner, but will be postponed in order that the entire program may be given over to the Greater Appleton movement and the launching of the drive for membership. Announcements will be made and an enthusiasm meeting held as a fitting start for the biggest drive for chamber of commerce memberships the city has ever known.

On Tuesday morning all the teams will meet with their captains at campaign headquarters for final instructions. The workers will then go out in pairs to solicit memberships from the people whose prospect cards they hold. The first team report supper will be at Conway hotel at 6:15 Tuesday evening. For the next two days the teams will meet at 9:30 in the morning for conference and will make their team reports at luncheon at Hotel Appleton at 12 o'clock. The big success dinner, which will be the final report meeting, will take place at 6:15 Friday evening.

All plans for the campaign are in readiness and the work will go on in a most systematic manner. J. P. Ballantine, campaign manager, is ill, however, and was not able to be at the campaign headquarters on Monday.

On Sunday, the dates of the campaign were announced in the pulpits of members of Appleton Ministerial association. The pastor urged the people to take part in the Greater Appleton movement and to do everything in their power to make this organization which can do so much for the city one which has not only their moral support but their financial backing.

$70,000 ANNUALLY FOR HIDDEN TAX SLEUTHS

Madison—An appropriation of $70,000 is to be provided to the tax commission by the joint committee on finance for the single purpose of investigating income tax returns of corporations and individuals. This is $5,000 more than provided during the past year.

Through the expenditure of this money to pay salaries and expenses of field auditors the tax commission expects to uncover hundreds of thousands of dollars in unreported taxes. An expenditure of $65,000, including $40,000 made available by the special session of the legislature in March 1922, brought in over $1,000,000 additional taxes.

LOOK TO 'BOB' TO STRAIGHTEN OUT TAX SNARL

Leadership Necessary In Legislature—LaFollette's Visit May Do Trick

Madison—The crucial stage of the Wisconsin legislature has been reached. With the major problems under consideration in such a jumble that only a definitely asserted leadership can straighten out the course of legislation and assure accomplishment, observers here declare speculation centers on the effect the return of Senator LaFollette, during the next few weeks will have on the legislature.

There is a growing opinion among well informed politicians that this is to be another "do-nothing" session, so far as taxation is concerned. Expressions are general here that a failure of the legislature to make radical changes in the present income tax laws would be welcomed by certain of the leaders in the LaFollette Progressive ranks.

SPLIT ON TAXES

The tax jumble occasioned by a division of administration forces over the Dahl general income tax bill and the Severson income surtax bill, has only been emphasized by the announcement of Governor Blaine that he is to have a revenue measure of his own, now being drafted by "experts." The governor told a caucus of senators that his is to be a "real bill," but further than that he has not let its provision be known.

This mixup over income taxation is repeated in the tangle of proposed highway legislation. There is grave doubt whether the automobile weight tax or the gasoline tax drawn by the joint highway committee of the legislature can be passed in the form that they are now in. Modifications are looked for in these measures before they come up to a test.

NEED STRONG LEADERS

Defections from the administration forces in the senate have made a new and strong leadership necessary, politicians say, if the session is to result in any real accomplishment of major issues. Just where this leadership is to be looked for, is not now evident in the legislature.

114 Fever Is Fake; Woman Fools Doctor

By Associated Press

Escanaba, Mich.—The story of how Miss Evelyn Lyons, 30, Escanaba, "fever girl" fooled the medical profession of the city of Escanaba, newspapermen and sympathetic neighbors for 21 days through her ingenious fever raising tactics was unfolded here today by Dr. Harry J. Defnet, city health commissioner and attending physician on the case which has attracted nation-wide attention.

"Last Saturday night, I was called to the Lyons residence," declared Dr. Defnet and "the girl seemed to be experiencing intense agony. I was surprised that any one could possibly go through such agony and live and so my suspicions were at once aroused. I called in Dr. A. P. Snyder and we both watched the girl's feverish actions until long into the night. During the time I spent there I never saw such acting as was displayed by the girl. After a lapse of a few hours we found a hot water bottle concealed in the bed, which the girl had apparently used to raise the temperatures. The noticeable fact was the color—fresh color—as the girl's night clothing. By this ingenious device the girl would cause a delay just long enough to put the bull against the small bottle which was but six inches in length and four inches wide and by its color resembled the night gown perfectly. Her mother brought the hot water bottle to the girl, unsuspectingly because of Evelyn's complaining of sore on her back.

OPENING OF STYLE WEEK POSTPONED BY BIG BLIZZARD

Can't Hold Automobile Parade And Band Concert Tonight

All the elaborate preparations for the formal opening of spring style week in Appleton tonight went into the discard when the blizzard forced postponement of the formal style opening. The automobile parade and the band concert, scheduled for this evening, have been called off.

Most of the merchants will have their windows trimmed however, but there will be no effort at extra lighting effects.

A meeting of the committee, in charge was to be held this afternoon to determine when the formal opening will be staged. Merchants are keenly disappointed over the turn in events as they had made very large preparations to show Appleton the latest in wearing apparel and household conveniences.

The essay contest and the window contest will not be open until the formal opening of style week. The committee will decide this afternoon when this shall take place.

TWO MURDER TRIALS IN WOOD-CO COURT

Alleged Sender Of "Yule Bomb" And Woman To Face Charges

Wisconsin Rapids—Wood-co circuit court faced its busiest session in years Monday with a calendar containing two murder trials, 20 cases of selling illicit liquor and numerous petty stealing and civil actions. The feature of the term is the advent of women jurors for the first time in the county's history.

Although the case of John Magnuson, Mill Creek farmer, charged with the sending of the "yule bomb" which resulted in the killing of Mrs. James R. Chapman, wife of a Wood-co supervisor, Dec. 27 last, held the attention of the state, the hearing of Mrs. Lucille Daugherty, 18, on the charge of killing Adolph Virum last fall, also is causing much comment. Pending the outcome of Mrs. Daugherty's trial Mrs. Dora Eichhorn, the girl's mother, will be tried at the fall term on the same charge.

Virum was killed, according to District Attorney R. R. Williams when he was struck in the head by a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle alleged to have been fired by Mrs. Daugherty.

HINT NOTED GERMAN WAR MARINER IS RUM RUNNER

London—Wholesale rum running in the United States by a fleet of four or five ships registered under the Panamanian flag is being financed by a prominent German magnate, according to information received in responsible American quarters here. The fleet is declared to be being chiefly operated from the United States and by a former captain of a Hamburg-American liner. The fleet itself it is understood is under the command of a character of questionable nationality, who achieved notoriety in connection with marine operations of a dubious nature during the war.

HARDING WILL ASK GOVERNORS TO RUM PARLEY

Better Cooperation Between State And Federal Officials Needed

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1923 by The Post Pub. Co.

Palm Beach, Fla.—One of the first acts of President Harding after his vacation will be to meet the governors of all the states to discuss the enforcement of the prohibition law. The president feels that it is his duty to make clear to the state executives that the language of the Eighteenth amendment which places on the federal government and the several state "concurrent jurisdiction" means joint responsibility. The states have the police force and the federal government has additional machinery but the latter is virtually powerless without the hearty cooperation of the states.

FLORIDA SUNNY AND WET

Florida is one of the states which isn't as dry as the federal prohibition officers would like to have it and while President Harding isn't down here on any inspection trip, he cannot escape noticing some of the many newspaper items which have been appearing lately concerning prohibition violations. For instance, the Palm Beach Daily Post in its leading editorial has this to say today:

"Naturally there has been a good deal of comment in Florida newspapers on the indictment at Tampa by a federal grand jury of three residents of West Palm Beach on charges of conspiracy to violate the national liquor law, and some of the comment is unfriendly critical. The Orlando-Reporter Star says, for example, that the open and notorious conditions of the liquor business at Miami and Palm Beach are known all over the United States.

"We have heard something of liquor law violations in New York City and in Chicago, and in New York, and in San Francisco, indeed even in Orlando, and that being the case it is not improbable that there have been reports of violations on the lower east (Continued on page 11)

PLAN TO RAISE PAY OF STATE WORKERS

Committee Trying To Cut Expenses, Finds Wage Scales Low

By Associated Press

Madison—A thorough investigation of salaries paid state employees, made by the joint committee on finance of the legislature, has resulted in the conclusion that if there is to be a revision of the wage scale in the state government, it must be toward a higher rather than a lower level.

Intending to hit upon means of cutting governmental expenses through a reduction in wages of employees, the committee made a survey of every payment to each employee in the service of the state. It discovered, however, committee members say, that slashes in salaries could not be justified because of the existing low scale.

It is the opinion of committee members that a budget of between $22,000,000 and $24,000,000 exclusive of expenditures for highway purposes, will come out of the finance committee. The appropriations for each of the two years of the last biennium amounted to approximately $23,000,000.

Second Big Blizzard Of Year Closes Roads And Cuts Off Trains

Wind Storm Causes Big Money Loss

Twenty Killed By Tennessee Cyclone—Heavy Losses In Wisconsin

Milwaukee—One dead, several hurt and damage estimated at a million dollars and all kinds of transportation and wire service crippled was the brief summing up of the extent of Sunday night's and Monday's blizzard in Milwaukee which still continues in central and southern Wisconsin. About eleven inches of wet snow has fallen here.

Albert Nauman, 38, a janitor fell exhausted and died on his way to work on the south side, his death being attributed by the coroner to heart failure superinduced by the physical exertion of battling the elements.

The velocity of wind today was forty miles an hour. Wires and poles are down in all directions out of Milwaukee.

Transportation, both steam and electric in the storm area is badly crippled and wires of all kinds are down in many sections.

Thousands of Milwaukeeans were compelled to walk to work this morning because of the stalled street car service.

DEEP SNOW IN MADISON

Madison appears to have experienced the greatest fall of snow, the report from there denoting 18 inches which completely tied up local transportation and caused big delays in train service. Janesville reports ten inches of snow and all means of transportation tied up.

Six inches of snow fell at LaCrosse. A blizzard still continues there.

Kenosha reports about six inches of very wet snow and transportation badly hampered.

Superior and Wausau seem to have escaped the severity of the storm and report only a light snow with temperature about ten degrees above zero.

WORST IN YEARS

Chicago—Telephone and telegraph communications were partially crippled today by the heavy snow and rain storm that swept over the Mississippi valley and central western states last night.

Chicago experienced one of the worst storms it has known in years. Many Sunday night theatregoers waited until 2 and 3 o'clock this morning for taxis to their homes. Western suburbs (Continued on page 16.)

OFFICIALS BAGGED IN BOOTLEG RAID

Washington—Prohibition officials themselves must take whatever action appears necessary in connection with the discovery in a recent bootleg raid here of a list of Washington residents which included several names of officials of the state department and of many officers of the army, navy and marine corps.

After a preliminary inquiry Monday it was indicated that the state war and navy departments would take no further step in the matter, but would regard each case a personal matter between the man named and the prohibition enforcement authorities. It was pointed out at all three departments that there was nothing now in evidence to in any way incriminate those whose names were on the list.

TEACHERS' RETIREMENT FUND AIDING FARMERS

Madison—Funds accumulated by the state teachers' retirement system are being opened to farmers for loans as rapidly as approval can be given by the annuity board of the system. R. E. Loveland, secretary of the board announced Monday. Up to the present 145 loans aggregating $915,000 have been authorized and 91 loans amounting to $566,650 have actually been made.

The annuity board has temporarily invested $455,000 in U. S. Liberty bonds and $785,000 in Canadian bonds. These temporary investments will be liquidated just as fast as the farm loans extend in Wisconsin. It is explained. They have been made by the board in order to assure an immediate interest return on the funds held by it.

Transportation Systems Badly Hit by Wind and Snow—Schools Closed as Drifts Block Streets—Covers Wide Area

Train service in the Fox river valley was demoralized Monday morning by the second severe blizzard of this year. A high wind, which started near midnight, accompanied by a heavy fall of snow, blew up huge drifts which blocked the country roads and forced the railroads to annul many of their trains. It is not probable that any trains will reach Appleton until late this afternoon or early this evening.

The high wind and the driving snow were the only inconvenience. Unlike the blizzard of a few weeks ago, the temperature is moderate and the snow drifts are soft. Much less difficulty is being experienced in opening the transportation lines and highways.

STREET CARS RUNNING

Street cars were operating on the city lines and between Kaukauna and Menasha. The interurban lines were kept open by a snow plow but the city lines were badly drifted until about 7:30 when the plow and gangs of workmen removed the drifts. The cars are running very nearly on schedule all the time. The Neenah-Oshkosh line suspended operations and no cars were running today. The wind apparently blew most of the snow off the Menasha and automobiles were able to operate.

STORM WARNING

Storm warning issued by the weather bureau at Washington, D. C., indicates that probably another storm will strike Appleton soon. It warns that a storm is sweeping over the upper lake-region toward the northwest.

Here is the warning:

9:30 A. M. southeast storm warnings are displayed from Block Island, R. I. to Eastport, Maine; strong east and southeast winds and probable gales today; severe storm over upper lake region moving rapidly northeastward.

The weather man predicts snow and colder for tonight; Tuesday colder with overcast skies, with strong northwest winds.

COVERS WIDE AREA

The storm includes a wide area spreading as far east as Pittsburg and as far south as Jackson, Miss. Several lives were lost when buildings were wrecked. Chicago is seriously crippled with electric light wires down and transportation and communication deranged. Reports received by W. B. Basing, agent for the Northwestern railroad indicate the storm is much more severe between Milwaukee and Chicago than it is here.

Neenah also apparently suffered more severely than Appleton. It was reported that the blizzard was worse than the one in February. The Soo line however, reported that its south-bound trains were on time and the north-bound trains were from three to four hours late.

START TRIAL OF 'RED' DELEGATES

Foster Placed On Stand First—Women Called To Jury Box

St. Joseph, Mich.—William Z. Foster of Chicago was placed on trial in Berrien-co circuit court Monday morning charged with writing, advocating and "deliberately justifying" the doctrine that "industrial and political reform should be brought about by crime, sabotage and other unlawful methods of terrorism."

Foster is the first of 32 persons arrested after a raid on the national convention of the Communist party last August to face trial.

Two women were among the first 12 veniremen called to the jury box. Charles W. Gore, prosecutor, questioned the prospective jurors about their knowledge of pamphlets favoring the defendants which have been mailed to thousands of voters throughout the country by the American Civil Liberties Union and the American Defense Society.

A score of Foster's fellow defendants, who are to be tried later, were in the audience, including Rose Pastor Stokes, Robert Minor, Max Bedacht, Edgar Owens, Charles E. Ruthenberg, and Norman H. Tallentire. The Michigan law against criminal syndicalism, under which Foster is being tried, carries a penalty upon conviction of 10 years in prison or a $5,000 fine or both.

CLOSE THREE SCHOOLS

School attendance was at low ebb Monday as a result of the difficulty walking through the drifts. The Richmond and Sacred Heart schools were closed in the Fourth ward, and pupils of the lower grades were dismissed early, as only a few of them appeared. Only a small number of pupils came to St. Joseph school, and these were sent home early.

St. Paul Lutheran school had only a 20 per cent attendance, and it was expected that this school would close. No sessions were held in the first five grades of the Third ward school, and the lower classes in the Fifth ward school held no sessions. The attendance in the third and fourth grades was about 30 per cent, that in the upper grades about 50 per cent.

Hardly more than a dozen pupils of the kindergarten, first and second grades of the Columbus school were in attendance, while the total morning attendance at Franklin school was 25. Lincoln, St. Mary and Zion Lutheran school had a fair attendance. The vocational school at the high school attendance was about 50 per cent.

FIREMEN READY

Chief G. P. McGilligan kept a full force of the fire department on the job Monday in preparation for any emergency. It was held that any fire, with a good start and fanned by the strong wind, would soon get beyond the firemen's control. Two small fires were quickly extinguished Monday morning.

Leonard Day, hatless, coatless and penniless author-biker, who intended to resume his journey around the edge of the United States, was again detained as a result of the snow storm. Just as he was detained in Illinois during the severe February snow storm. It is expected he will leave in a few days. He is the guest of the fire department.

POSTPONE FUNERAL

Both city and rural mail delivery was severely handicapped Monday. Residents were unusually late in revealing their wishes in the morning, thus making it all the more difficult (Continued on page 12)

TOWNS PREPARING FOR ANNUAL CAUCUS BEFORE ELECTION

Chairmen Only Officials Whose Terms Do Not Expire This Year

Towns and villages throughout the county are preparing for the annual town meetings at which the town and village officers will be elected for the ensuing year. The date of the annual meeting and election in both towns and villages will be the first Tuesday in April, or April 3. At least 12 days previous the election of towns and villages assemble in caucus to nominate candidates. Nomination may also be made by circulation of nomination papers. Caucus in Grand Chute and Liberty will be held on March 20, and several other towns are expected to have their caucuses on the same date.

Town chairmen are the only town officers whose terms do not expire this year, since they still hold over another year under the old law that provides three-year terms for county supervisors. The law has since been repealed and next year town chairmen, as county supervisors, will be elected for terms of one year only. The terms of the other two supervisors of each town do expire this year, however, and they will be voted upon in the annual meeting.

Officers to be elected by towns this year are two town supervisors, a clerk, a treasurer, an assessor, a justice of the peace and a constable. It is not likely that a constable or justice will be elected in the town of Grand Chute because of the town within easy reach of the Appleton police force.

Election in the villages will call for a president, a clerk, a treasurer, an assessor, a supervisor, a constable, a justice of the peace and three trustees of the village board.

Former Appleton Man Will Assist Unique Enterprise At Lake Mishike

A number of Wisconsin boys have already been signed up for the boys' forestry camp at Lake Mishike, Vilas co. A number of Appleton boys are also said to be interested. It will be the first forestry camp in Wisconsin and will be operated similarly to those in the Adirondacks.

Camp Mishike will open on July 1, with three well known forestry experts in charge. Dr. Hugh P. Baker who spoke in Appleton about a week ago will be in charge of the instruction program. He is executive secretary of the American Pulp and Paper association and is at present being boosted by the chambers of commerce of Appleton, Oshkosh, Wausau, West Bend and Fond du Lac for the department director of national resources production, United States Chamber of Commerce. He was formerly dean of the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse.

The camp director will be W. E. Sanderson, who has directed camps in the Adirondacks and is a graduate of the Syracuse school of forestry. Warren Bullock, formerly with the Appleton Crescent, and now director of publicity of the American Pulp and Paper association, will take the boys on a canoe trip to the Lac du Flambeau reservation.

The camp consists of about 1,600 acres of virgin forest in beautiful Vilas co. which has 1,600 of Wisconsin's 7,000 lakes.

GREATEST DANGER FOLLOWS GRIP

Wakened Victims Fall Easy Prey to Other Diseases

The getting-well stage of grip, pneumonia or other illness is the most dangerous of all.

The body, weakened by the disease, is wide open to attacks of other lurking germs.

That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the disease, but to help the patient regain strength.

After any illness Father John's Medicine builds up the body because it is all pure wholesome nourishment.

Father John's Medicine has had 67 years' success for colds and throat troubles, coughs and sore throats, and as a tonic and body builder.

A Mother's Experience

"After an attack of pneumonia the doctor ordered me to give my baby Father John's Medicine and as a result he regained health and strength. I always give it to my children whenever they catch cold." OCOONTO-CO WOULD LIKE TO HIRE BACK AMUNDSEN AGENT

Object To Outagamie-co Using Money To Replace "Lack Of Brains"

The securing of a county agricultural agent has its difficulties, so the members of the county agricultural committee has learned. Not only did the committee lose out in engaging J. N. Kavanaugh, the active county agent of Brown co., but even now after securing R. A. Amundsen of Oconto co., the county would be threatened with losing him if a certain group of Oconto co. folk could have their way.

Fortunately for this county, Mr. Amundsen has signed a contract to act as the farm agent of this county for two years. But over in Oconto co. farmers are dissatisfied with Mr. Amundsen's leaving their service.

"Who is this Outagamie-co, anyway," asks J. B. Gallagher, president of the Oconto County Equity, "that they should leave us with what is left over in county agents? A system is wrong, where a county gets a good agent and trains him, and then a rich county steps in and helps him and gets the benefit. They are making up their lack of brains and work with money."

"True, Outagamie-co may have twice as large a tax roll. Our own county has often thrown away money with reckless abandon. If we are going to cut taxes, let us begin where we are getting nothing in return. Why not spend a little more now where it will be come good?"

"To hire a new agent would be a waste of money, and then if we should happen to draw a good one, after five years or so along comes Outagamie-co and hire him again. They say he has already been hired there. Well, then, let us hire him back again."

Alen Last To Appear On Course

Governor Of Kansas Will Present Remarkable Views On Labor Matters

A court which looks out beyond interest and declares in behalf of the public that the laborer is worthy of his hire and that the right to live is greater than the right to strike is what Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas will speak about at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Tuesday evening. Gov. Allen's lecture is the last of this season's Community Lecture and Artist series programs.

Extensive surveys of labor difficulties have led Gov. Allen to be interested in the third party in all labor and capital disputes. That party is the public which must pay for all the difficulties. He has recently written a book on the industrial court, "The Party of the Third Part" which was enthusiastically received by all who are hoping for a settlement.

Gov. Allen is reputed to be a clean-minded and level-headed American who is an able speaker on current topics. He has been a business success and has risen to high position in politics. His address will be nonpartisan, however.

STUDENTS TO PLAN FINANCE CAMPAIGN FOR COLLEGE 'GYM'

Meeting Will Be Held Tonight At Call Of Pupils Themselves

When representatives of sororities and fraternities and of the non-Greek letter group from Lawrence college meet at Conway hotel on Monday evening the gymnasium will be the subject paramount in their minds. The meeting is the result of much concern on the part of the students about the ways and means of obtaining the necessary funds for the gymnasium within a short time.

Chester Roberts, well known alumnus and former star athlete of the college, will preside at the meeting. The speakers will include Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of the college, Dr. D. O. Kinsman and Samuel Cookson, financial secretary of the college. A student plan for conducting the campaign for funds among their own members will be presented and discussed by those present. It is hoped that a plan for conducting an intensive campaign at once will be the result of the meeting.

DRAFT METHOD

The plan which will be presented on Monday evening is one which will fit in with the efforts of Mr. Cookson, who has already begun to sign the students up to give $100 apiece beginning with an installment upon the completion of the pledging of the $175,000 fund for the building and its endowment. When the committee has decided upon the plan, it will be presented to the student body and work begun at once. An executive committee of students will be appointed to work with Mr. Cookson.

Student action on the gymnasium und has come from the students themselves and was not solicited by the financial department of the college. Although the students had been approached as individuals, there had been no plan of a campaign managed by the students themselves until groups of the students suggested it. The plans for the meeting on Monday evening have been a favorite among the student representatives and heads of various campus organizations. After the campaign has been launched among the students, they will make an appeal to the alumni of the college to come to their assistance. The students have great hopes of being able to raise a large part of the fund themselves so that the gymnasium will be a definite indication of the great student interest in promoting athletics.

TAKE TRICK OUT OF DANCE

VANDA HOFF AND HER DANCING PARTNER ILLUSTRATING STEPS IN THE NEW TANGO.

BY MARIAN HALE

Good news!

They've taken the "trick" out of an intricate dance. In-trick-ate-see?

In other words, the tango has been simplified; anybody can dance it now.

The difficult Argentine dance always has been a favorite among the stars—those accomplished individuals whose feet have had all the advantages of a university education, attested to by a master's degree.

MUCH TOO HARD

But with those of us whose toes never got beyond the primary or maybe the grammar school grade it simply never has been our medium of tango expression. Too hard!

And because we have represented the great majority of dancers, the tango has failed to become a ballroom favorite.

Now all this is changed.

The musical director of the Folies Bergere of Paris has made the tango the rage there by inventing "La Momme Tango," danced to a tune of that name, which, roughly translated into United States, means "The Tango Kid."

TWILL TRAVEL WEST

Not only is it the rage in Paris, but in New York, too, and they say it's scheduled for prompt delivery to all points west.

Here's how:

Take regular position, both dancers facing forward, following with four light, quick steps, heels off the floor—First movement.

Pivot with alternating steps—Second movement.

Take four steps to the right and four to the left—Third movement.

Swinging around into a dip, the dancers facing—Fourth movement.

DO IT ONCE AGAIN

Rise erect from the dip still facing, take four steps to the right and four back to the left, pivot and swing into the — Fifth movement—which brings the partners side by side into—Pursuit position.

Then four steps forward, four steps back, dip twice and break into the original steps, for repetition of the entire series.

That's all there is to it—there isn't any more.

Mme. Paquin Explains High Cost Of Dresses

By Associated Press

Paris—"Why do women's dresses cost so much?" This eternal man's question was put to Madame Jeanne Paquin, and her cryptic answer was: "They don't."

For 33 years Madame Paquin has been making dresses in Paris for the wealthy from all parts of the world. It may be that her idea of what is expensive has been influenced by the class of trade which automobiles up to her doors, but nevertheless her answer was the sincere expression of a business woman. For in the next breath she said: "Or rather, dresses do not cost the buyer so much, when it is considered what they cost the producer."

Madame Paquin employs about 900 people, and turns out 4,000 dresses a year. About 25 out of every hundred of her gowns have to be discarded because they are not properly made. This accounts in part for the high cost of those that are marketed.

"To obtain an art product, there must be waste," Madame Paquin explained. "A painter may make many sketches before he finally reaches the creation that is called art. It is the same way with dresses. I employ people who do nothing but sit around and criticize our dresses, and if a given dress doesn't satisfy them, a new one must be made for the client. These people must be paid. Some of them get a hundred thousand francs a year. There are only a few people who can engage in the profession of beautifying women with clothes. These few must be paid accordingly."

"Women object to the high cost as much as men. It is a mistake to think women like to pay high prices for their dresses. You can tell all the husbands that women dispute their bills to the last penny."

"How much does it cost to dress a woman well for a year?" Madame Paquin was asked.

"There were many who spent a hundred thousand francs a year before the war on their dresses, and if they did this now their bills would run to a half million," said Madame Paquin.

"But I believe, for the average woman who can afford to dress in such dresses as mine, that 50 thousand francs a year would do it, giving her about 15 dresses a year. This would give her in each season about four dresses, one for the street, one for sport, one for evening, and one for afternoon receptions. Add what is necessary for cloaks, furs, hats, shoes, umbrellas and underclothing and the total would come to about $5,000 in American money."

Girl Cagers Are Losers In Game With Green Bay

Appleton Women's club basketball team lost to the Green Bay Y. W. C. A. at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening by a 24 to 19 score. The Appleton volleyball team won two games from the Green Bay team with 21 to 12 and 21 to 3 scores.

The Green Bay teams accompanied by several rooters came to Appleton before dinner on Saturday evening and were entertained at the homes of members of the Appleton teams. After the games, which were remarkable for their spirit of good fellowship, the guests were entertained at a social hour at the clubroom until train time.

"It does not matter who wins a game like that," said Miss Emily Adams, coach of the Appleton teams. "The spirit was so splendid and the games, especially the basketball, so well played, that it took all the disappointment out of losing for our girls."

Miss Hallie Turner refereed the basketball game. It was played according to the new girls' rules with a two-court field and six girls to a side. It was one of the fastest girls' games ever played in Appleton.

BUILDERS READY TO DEFER WORK IF COSTS GO HIGHER

Confidence Prevailing Lumber
Market As Conditions
Stabilize

Lumber production, taking the industry as a whole, has shown a sharp increase since the middle of last month, while demand has registered a considerable slump. However, orders continue to exceed output by a margin of 10 per cent, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. Shipments meanwhile have mounted steadily, and at the close of February totaled well above both production and orders. The slackening in demand has been largely due to the cold and unfavorable weather that prevailed practically throughout the country during last month, and to the fact that retail dealers have adopted a more conservative attitude toward the future. The retail yards bought heavily for stock purposes during December and January, and shipments are now being received. With their stocks fuller and better assorted, they have for the most part decided to proceed with caution until spring, business actually begins to materialize so that they can learn with certainty what volume it will assume. Building permits are being taken out in great numbers, and architects and contractors report an excellent outlook for spring.

It has been noticeable for some time that those contemplating building have been watching costs closely, and that they were prepared to postpone their projects if the upward trend continued. Lumber and building material prices in general have by this time become more stabilized, permitting prospective builders to proceed with greater confidence. This being a fact, most of the contemplated work will doubtless be undertaken this spring, and the lumber industry is confident that demand will show a material revival before long and that the spring market will be active. The manufacturers are now having a much appreciated breathing spell, during which they are concentrating on shipping out old orders and in some measure rounding out their badly broken stocks.

The car material business, which two months ago was a feature of an unprecedented brisk market, has fallen off considerably of late. Car builders have contracts to keep them busy until late fall, and have already bought most of the lumber required for this period. The railroads themselves, however, are buying sizable quantities for repair purposes, as well as much construction material of various descriptions. Industrial demand continues strong. That for hardwoods in particular is heavy, with automobile, furniture, flooring and interior trim and box manufacturers scouring the market for their needs. Exports also are voluminous, and foreign prospects are excellent.

The lumber market, taken as a whole, remains very strong. The mills are making no effort to obtain business and are finding no difficulty in maintaining prices on the present basis.

WIDE-OPEN VALVES WASTERS OF GAS

Utilities Bureau Gives Advice
On Economy In Household Cookery

Gas bills just naturally swell into plump figures when the housewife is too hasty in preparing her meals. Wide-open jets, producing violent boiling, are wasteful, and further fuel is dissipated if covers are not used.

The United States bureau of standards has completed an elaborate series of tests dealing with the use of gas in the home, as a result of which the bureau has formulated recommendations for the economical use of gas for cooking.

This work was begun at the request of the American Gas Association and is being announced by the Wisconsin Public Utilities Bureau.

The difference between careful use of gas and careless use in the amount of fuel consumed was shown in the following tests: A light aluminum utensil holding two quarts of water was used, being kept on the stove in each case until all the water was evaporated.

Test 1. It was found that, with a lid on the utensil, violent boiling gas on full continued about nine times more gas than was necessary to maintain gentle boiling. Violent boiling required 18 cubic feet of gas an hour; gentle boiling required two cubic feet.

Test 2. For gentle boiling about five times as much gas was used with the lid off as with the lid on; with the lid off, 10 cubic feet an hour; with the lid on, two cubic feet an hour.

Test 3. When violently boiled, water evaporated about as quickly with the lid on as with the lid off, and consumed the same amount of gas.

Test 4. Gentle boiling evaporated water about six times as fast with the lid off as with the lid on.

The gentle rule, as shown by the foregoing tests, would be to use a covered utensil whenever possible, with the gas turned so low as only to keep the water gently boiling.

A further series of experiments demonstrated that a distance of about an inch and a half between the burner and the bottom of the vessel was found to give the best results.

Balanced Ration Means More Profit For Farmer

University Expert Advises Farmers On How To Feed Their Stock

BY W. F. WINSEY

In stock raising and dairying, the value of a balanced ration cannot be over estimated. To prove the truth of this statement, farmers and other experimenters have divided droves of hogs of the same age, breed and promise into two groups and enclosed each group for fattening. To one group was given access to an abundance of water and corn and to the other a balanced ration. The former group wherever the test was made had little more to its credit in the way of profit to its owner at the end than if the hogs had been guests and boarders, respected and admired and endured for their ability to entertain and their society. The other group, fed on a balanced ration including possibly among other things skim milk, whey or something else rich in some essential food element that growing, fattening hogs require, not contained in sufficient quantities in corn, furnished entertainment and society free, paid their board bills and before they shuffled, sleek and heavy, up the chute into a freight car at a shipping point, left behind them a good record of inexpensive growth and a purse well stuffed with bank notes as clear profit to its owner.

What is true of hogs with respect to the economy of feeding a balanced ration is equally true of dairy cattle. No matter what the breed of a herd of dairy cattle is or what its care and environment are, if it is to pay a profit, hit-and-miss feeding must go either as a result of scientific knowledge or local experience in operation, and the balanced ration must be used.

LOTS OF GUESSWORK

It is a difficult thing for the individual farmer to work out a balanced ration for his dairy cows by himself, based upon the feed raised on his farm and supplemented by lacking elements to be found in the market. He probably hasn't the time, the conveniences nor the disposition to undertake, and to perform the experiments necessary. So he feeds his cows an abundance of what he raises on the farm and hits upon the right mixture sometimes and misses it other times. When he hits the balanced ration he smiles but when he misses it he frowns.

Happily, F. B. Morrison, Wisconsin College of Agriculture, has come to the assistance of the dairymen of Wisconsin with a balanced ration for dairy cows to meet local conditions and requirements. It is a masterpiece in its line. After a talk on the value of a balanced ration for live stock and dairy cattle at the Farmers' institute of Greenville, the drift of which talk is given above, advance copies of Mr. Morrison's work on the balanced ration were distributed among the farmers present at the institute in circular form. Later the work will be published in pamphlet and will be mailed to dairymen upon written request.

Mr. Morrison's balanced rations are too lengthy to be printed within the limits of this article. So to show the value and character of the whole, excerpts are given below including one ration selected at random from a total of thirty-six. What is presented below may convince the dairymen that he should have the pamphlet.

In his talk at the Greenville institute, Mr. Morrison said that dairymen might save $7.00 a ton on their concentrates by mixing them themselves on their barn floors. The time required to mix a ton is about thirty minutes.

Of a balanced ration in his circular, Mr. Morrison starts off with the following introduction: "To select a concentrate mixture which will make a balanced ration with a roughage and, at the same time, be palatable, have a good effect on the general thrift of the cows, and above all be economical, takes quite a little time and considerable figuring. To simplify the working out of balanced rations the concentrate mixtures on the following pages are given."

Any of these will make balanced rations when fed with the roughages indicated, for cows producing about one pound of butter fat daily.

"These concentrate mixtures are palatable. They contain sufficient bulky feed; and when combined with the roughages stated, they will be neither too laxative nor too constipating for good results."

RULES FOR FEEDING CONCENTRATES

"The amount of concentrates to be fed each cow in the herd may be determined from one of the following thumb rules:

1. Feed one pound of concentrates per day for each pound of butter fat the cow produces per week, or
2. Feed 1 lb. of concentrates per day for each 3 to 4 lbs. of milk, depending on its richness.

"The first two rules apply only

HENRY FORD'S BOOK POPULAR READING

The most widely read nonfiction book during the last week at Appleton public library was "My Life and Work" by Henry Ford.

One expects, on opening the covers of the book to find an autobiography and finds something else. It is a book difficult to classify, just as its subject, Henry Ford himself, is difficult to classify. Perhaps it may best be described as a statement of social philosophy by a victorious individualist.

The Ford portrayed in the book is not quite human, so intent is he on work as contrasted with life, on ideas as contrasted with incidents. His most poignant memory of his boyhood home is that "there was too much work around the place." Of his parents and the austere and discipline they gave him he tells nothing. His marriage is learned incidentally, and later of his setting up a sawmill which provided lumber for his first domestic establishment. The boy must have had his dreams and the man his romance more compelling than motors, but they are not recorded in the book.

Instead appear the full-length record of the Ford Motor company. The principles of manufacturing and merchandizing back of this triumph are fully expounded but just as one misses due tribute to subordinates so likewise does one miss the due credit to luck. Yet luck and loyalty Henry Ford had in abundance.

The second most popular nonfiction number for this week has been "Fetichism as I Knew Him" by Newcomb. The story tells beautifully the life and work of one of the world's greatest musicians and teachers by one who was a favored student of the great master.

The fiction numbers in greatest demand have been "One of Ours" by Cather, "The Breaking Point" by Rinehart and "Seventh Angel" by Black. The first two books have been among the popular stories for some time and both have been featured. The last book is one of the new ones at the library.

S. WILL HAVE TOO MANY PEOPLE TO FEED BY 2100

Professors Points To Approaching Waves Of Famine And Plenty As Nation Grows

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Baltimore, Md.—About the year 2100 the United States will have reached a point at which it will be unable to support any more inhabitants.

This is one of the startling assertions of Dr. Raymond Pearl, professor of vital statistics at Johns Hopkins University.

"If no way has been found to beat population's progress," he says, "the United States will find itself then in the same position as China today. We will have some 200,000,000 people and henceforward the number will oscillate, back and forth, as a few years of famine and then of plenty affect the population."

Pearl is well known in economic circles for his studies of population growth. He is one of the country's leading biologists and statisticians and has specialized on heredity and human life's variations.

"The world is on the high road to population saturation," is his conclusion. "From my experiments I have formed two mathematical laws according to which populations seem to grow."

HOW LAWS WORK
"One is that a population, starting at a beginning as near as possible to zero, grows at an increasing rate until it reaches its optimum relation between its means of subsistence and the number of people. Then it keeps on growing, but at an ever-decreasing rate until the saturation point is reached."

"The optimum relation in the United States was reached in 1914. Now the population is growing, but at a decreasing rate. Hoboken, N. J. is already close to its own saturation point. If its population increases, the city will have to expand or its people will have to move out."

"When the saturation point is reached what happens to the United States will be about the same as what is happening in China today, if nothing is done meanwhile to correct this law. That is, famine, pestilence war will cut down population for a few years. Then there will be a few good years, and famine will start again."

WAR, PESTILENCE, FAMINE
"China is reacting to the second law of population growth—the law of self-regulation. That, in simple terms, is that war, pestilence and other calamities make only a little juggle in the population curve, which then corrects itself as though there were no disaster."

"War and pestilence, therefore, are no solution. The only other one suggested thus far is birth control. On that subject I am still doubtful. It's good remains to be felt."
"The only alternative to this law of self-regulation by which overcrowding results in great misery and suffering, I have come to believe that the fundamental cause of the last war was population pressure, just as it has been in the past and undoubtedly will be in the future. But that does not solve the problem."

NEAR EAST WAR ON OIL NOT PROBABLE

Ida M. Tarbell Believes Great Britain Will Not Permit Eruption

New York—War over the oil fields of the Near East is not likely, in the opinion of Ida M. Tarbell, famous author and editor. Mrs. Tarbell disclaims intimate knowledge of the present international tangle, in which war rumors are based on the oil dispute at the Lausanne conference between the British and the Turks. But she has been recognized as an authority since the appearance in 1904 of her two-volume "History of the Standard Oil Company."

"It would be madness of England to allow a war over the Mosul oil fields," said Mrs. Tarbell.

"England must realize that such an outcome of the Lausanne negotiations would exhaust the remaining patience and alienate the remaining sympathy of the best opinion on the United States has for the allies. She cannot afford that, and I believe she knows it."

"I think England will keep control of the Mosul fields, and that the question will be settled by haggling and trading."

"All that the United States government will do will be to insist that our nationals have a chance in the development of the fields. That, of course, means Standard Oil. It is the only one of our oil nationals that counts in the big international oil game."

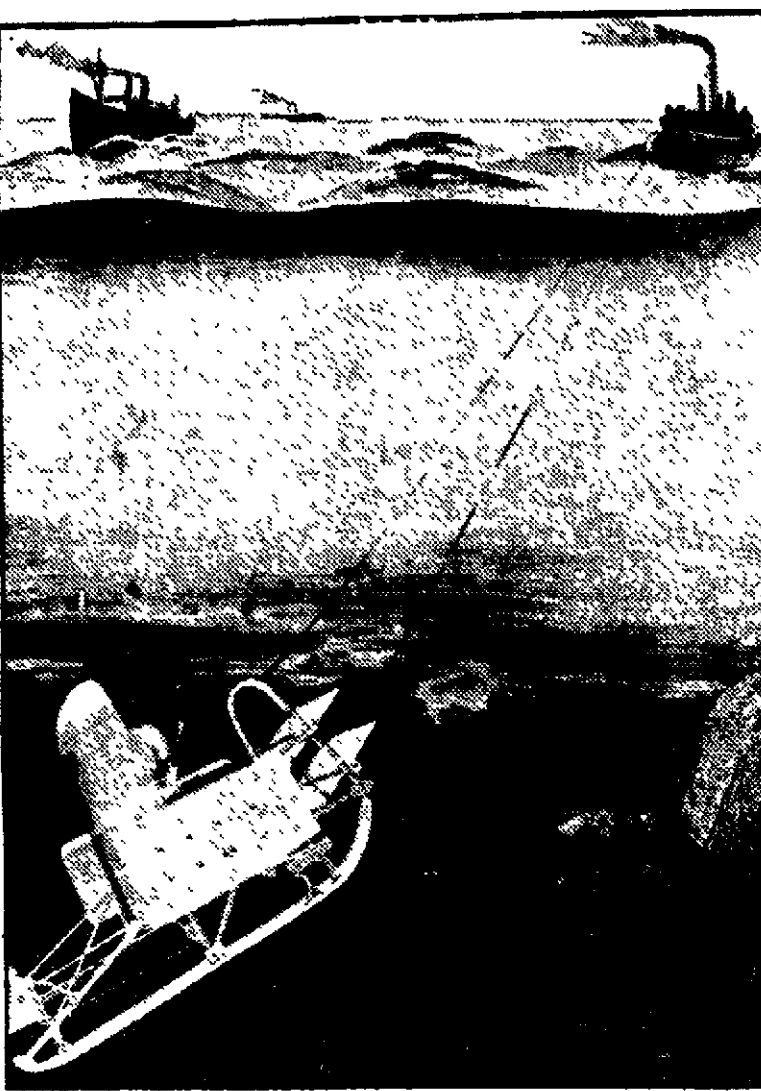

Mrs. Tarbell points out that oil is an international question because it is an imperative necessity in time of war.

"It is nonsense," she said, "to regard the Mosul fields as a necessary supply for the present commercial oil needs. We have enough oil now. This is for the future, especially for the navies of the world. England has no oil at home, and in case of war would collapse without a supply from outside. During the European war the United States saved the situation by getting oil to the allies."

"That is the reason why English statesmen are so concerned over the question; and it explains the close open connection between the British government and the interests lower there—something that does not exist here in any like degree."

EXPECT DEVELOPMENT
"A war over Mosul oil now would be, curiously, a war to make future

I SPIED TODAY

A NEW NURSEMAID
At the corner of North and Lawe streets I saw, today, a mother running frantically after her child's perambulator which was being fast propelled down the walk by the strong March wind. She rescued the vehicle just as it reached the center of the thoroughfare and carried it safely back to the store. The child, however, seemed none the worse for his experience, for he crawled and kicked his feet as he picked him up.

THE VAMPIRE HIM TO DEATH
While walking down Pacific street a few days ago I saw a kitten walking on top of the bridge at the end of Pacific. A dog which was coming along saw the cat and made a leap for it. He chased the kitten for a short way and then lost his balance and fell to the bottom of the ravine on the other side of the bridge. Life broke two of his legs and had to be shot.

IT SPOILED HER HAT
Sunday on Washington street I spied a young lady hurry out into the muddy road to pick up a coin she had seen sparkling in the sunshine. When an Oakland car came along, she stayed in the road waiting for the car to pass when she would be able to pick up the coin. Instead the car splashed by leaving the young lady, her new spring bonnet and all, speckled with mud. She did not stop to pick up the coin but hurried around the corner.

HIT HIM IN THE EYE
A bicyclist suffered a painful injury at the hands of a group of smart boys on Friday evening. The boys were throwing snow balls at when the young fellow and a friend came along, the snow balls used them as a target. One ball hit one of the fellows right in the face and he lost his balance and fell as a consequence. He got up but he could not see and had to be helped to the sidewalk.

POOR DOG OR POOR RABBITS?
Friday a baggage man at Oshkosh did a thoughtless thing which caused a hunting dog and some rabbits to be greatly wrought up. The hunting dog was in a crate and the baggage man placed a crate of rabbits on top of him. When he smelled the rabbits, he began to bark and at each bark, the rabbits would jump.

JUNIOR NAVAL RESERVE MODIFIES AGE LIMIT
By Associated Press
New York—Boys who just now have been disappointed at not being able to join the United States Junior Reserve because they were too young, can now look forward to membership provided they have attained ten years. The organization has taken down the bars against youngsters under fourteen, and will now accept them as Naval apprentices. The "junior" juniors will wear a distinguishing mark on the right sleeve of the uniforms.

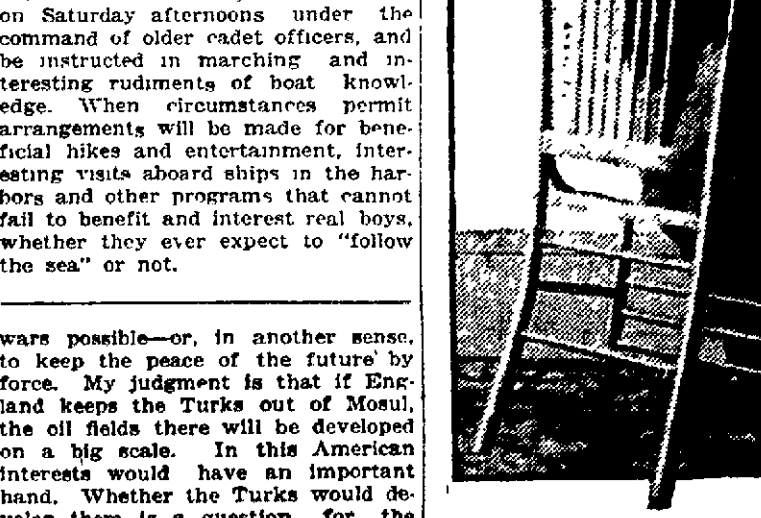

Up to the present time the Reserve has admitted boys only between the ages of 14 and 21. Now they may join between the ages of 10 and 14. On reaching the age of 14, the new category will be transferred into the ranks of the Reserve proper.

The young recruits will not be expected to attend night drills, or carry a gun. They will not be brought in contact with the older boys, but will assemble in their respective districts on Saturday afternoons under the command of older cadet officers, and be instructed in marching and interesting rudiments of boat knowledge. When circumstances permit arrangements will be made for beneficial hikes and entertainment, interesting visits aboard ships in the harbors and other programs that cannot fail to benefit and interest real boys, whether they ever expect to "follow the sea" or not.

was possible—or, in another sense, to keep the peace of the future by force. My judgment is that if England keeps the Turks out of Mosul, the oil fields there will be developed on a big scale. In this American interests would have an important hand. Whether the Turks would develop them is a question, for the Turks are not modern nor commercially energetic."

Mrs. Tarbell said the value of the oil fields of Mosul was not definitely known.

WORLD WONDERS HOW MANY PRINCES MAY GAIN THRONES

Unpopular Monarchy Rule Brings Alarm Among Heirs in Royalist Circles

(Special to Post-Crescent)
London—Analysis by pessimistic observers of the European crisis, who see in it the possible firebrand of another great war, has created new alarm in royalist circles.

The rising question is: What monarchies are marked for doom? Slender threads tie down many thrones, they think, whether the flame of war sweeps through Europe or not. And now increasing alarmist reports have dragged from obscurity into the spotlight many of the inconspicuous princes who are heirs to European thrones.

The internationally known Prince of Wales is not the only one who is concerned if a new chapter on kings and royalty comes to be written. Will these princes one day be king? Notable among them are: Carol, Crown Prince of Rumania; Gustaf Adolf, Duke of Skane and Crown Prince of Sweden; Leopold, Duke of Brabant and Prince of Belgium; Humbert, Prince of Piedmont and Prince of Italy; Olaf, Prince of Norway; Frederick, Crown Prince of Denmark.

Don Alfonso, Prince of the Asturias and Prince of Spain. The lives of most of these have been blank pages up to now. Unlike the Prince of Wales, called the "drummer" for the British Empire, they are little known.

Carol of Rumania has bulked largest in the news because of a lurid past. Once Carol renounced his right to the throne and married Marie Zizi, a beautiful Rumanian girl. She was offered as high as $3,000,000 to relinquish her claims, but she refused. A high court, however, decreed the marriage null and void because the bans had not been published properly. The decree came shortly after Zizi's baby was born.

Spain was packed off on a trip to Japan, passing through the United States. Later he paid court to Princess Helen, daughter of the late King Constantine of Greece.

Oldest, most scholarly and solid of heirs apparent is Gustaf Adolf of Sweden. His tastes run to archaeology and ancient history and he is now head of an expedition digging in an ancient city on the Aegean Sea. His wife, now dead, was the English Princess Margaret, cousin of King George.

Leopold of Belgium, now 31, was with his father, King Albert, on a visit to the United States a couple of years ago. He is a lieutenant in the Belgian army and rumored engaged to Princess Yolande of Italy. Her brother, Humbert of Italy, 18, is a lieutenant in the Italian army, and is reported engaged to Leopold's sister, Princess Marie José of Belgium. Olaf of Norway is 19 and a nephew of King George of England. His hobbies are fishing, boating and skiing. Frederick of Denmark, 24, took prizes once as a Boy Scout and his specialty now is motoring. Don Alfonso of Spain is the youngest of the heirs apparent. He is 15 and recently became a sergeant in the Spanish army.

Losa Declares Indigestion Had Him Almost Drowned But Tanlac Made Him Like New.

"When it comes to putting a man in fine working trim, Tanlac just isn't an equal," said Albert Losa, a tanner, of 703 State St., Milwaukee, recently.

"Why, this medicine has fixed me up to where I feel as strong and active as I did at twenty-one, and I can now keep pace with the best tanners in any factory."

"Before taking Tanlac, I was so run down it was mighty hard for me to keep on the job. I had indigestion, headaches, dizzy spells and backache something awful, was so nervous and restless I couldn't get a good night's sleep, and my troubles nearly had the best of me."

"Tanlac helped me from the start, so I stuck right to it until I took the full treatment of six bottles, and it has rid me of every ailment. I'm eating and sleeping fine now and turning out more work than ever. Tanlac certainly gets my OK every time."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold. adv.

FINAL TOM MIX SHOWING TONIGHT

Your last chance to see "Catch My Smoke," the William Fox feature starring the most daring of screen actors, Tom Mix, will have its closing presentation at the Elite Theatre, this evening.

For downright thrills, "Catch My Smoke" goes 'em all one better. The agile Mix climbs, fights, rides, runs, struggles and digs with a sincerity which wins for him the deserving title of "the most daring" man on the silver sheet. So, don't fail to see this box feature.

LORNA DOONE
Travelers who have been planning a trip across the Atlantic to see the famous old Westminster Abbey of London and to get the "atmosphere" of some of the most romantic spots in England, can save money by going. Instead to see Maurice Tourneur's version of "Lorna Doone," which comes Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to the Elite Theatre.

A reproduction of Whitehall Chapel in this picture has been declared by a group of architects who were asked to view the set before it was used to be one of the finest bits of photographic illusion ever accomplished on the silver sheet.

It took a month's time to construct the massive set of this chapel. After detailed plans had been drawn up by Milton Menasco, art director for Tourneur, and construction work begun by technicians of the Thomas It. Inc. studios where the picture was made, a research librarian spent several weeks in looking up details of the interior finishing.

THE THIRD ALARM
At last a photodrama, constructed on gigantic lines, that sings the long-delayed praise of the firemen of this country. It has been a long time coming, to be sure, but now that it is here in lavish reality, firemen and their hundreds of thousands of friends are rejoicing because it shows in vivid and logical sequences the degree of service the firemen give to his employers—the well known public.

The production is appropriately titled "The Third Alarm" and is scheduled for its initial exhibition at the Majestic Theatre starting today, for five days. That the fireman is a vital factor in the welfare of any community is brought out with smashing dramatic power in "The Third Alarm." It shows not only how diligently he serves but it also depicts in thrilling scenes the dangers he confronts the peril he faces uncompromisingly in the daily pursuit of his duties.

"The Third Alarm" is not propaganda for the firemen. Keep this point in mind. It is a powerfully dramatic story about a fireman and his little family, of his struggles for happiness, of his failure under the weight of his increasing years, of his dismissal from the department and of his comeback in a conflagration so staggeringly big in its scope as to put other screen fires to shame.

Ballyhoo Methods Omitted From Our Advertising

You may have noticed that some very high sounding but painfully commonplace words never appear in the J. C. Penney Company advertising.

Words like "marvelous," "price-smashing," "what they last," "cheaper than," "gigantic," and other similar "hip burrah" phrases are tabooed.

The public has long suffered from being afflicted with advertising of a character that has flaunted big, black type and wild statements.

Such retail selling methods are essentially, misleading.

We strive to earn and then continue to merit your confidence by adhering strictly to the truth and to conservatism in all our advertising.

We want your good will.

THE KISS OF JUDAS

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
First N.E.A. Service, Inc.

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his life to tracking down an arch criminal of many aliases and disguises, but known to him as MICHAEL SAYER. S. Among Sayer's secret abodes was a cottage near an English golf course where he was served by a housemaid, JANET SOALE, and lived as "Mr. Stanfield." One day while Sir Norman, a guest at the golf club, was playing the course with "Stanfield," Janet shot and killed a police officer who had tracked Sayer to the spot. The maid professed to her master and to Sir Norman complete ignorance, but later confessed to "Stanfield" and became his accomplice, as told in the present story by Sir Norman.

On the evening of my return from the Riviera after a three-months' holiday, I was accosted in the lounge of Marbridge's Hotel by a middle-aged man of inconspicuous appearance who had been seated in a corner alone. It was some few seconds before I could recall him to my memory, but curiously enough a crowd of unpleasant associations gathered themselves together in my mind even before I had recognized him.

"You haven't forgotten me and our golf down at Woking, Sir Norman?" he asked.

I knew all about him then.

"Mr. Stanfield, isn't it?" I said. "No, I haven't forgotten."

I was a few minutes early for my party, and I accepted the offer of a cocktail from my golfing acquaintance.

"That was an extraordinary interruption to our first game," he remarked. "I never fancied my little house much afterward. I gave it up, in fact, within the year."

"I heard you had left," I told him. "You had no luck in your investigations, Sir Norman?" he inquired.

I shook my head. The subject was still a sore one with me.

"I had no luck at all," I confessed.

"I came to certain conclusions which carried me a little way along the road, but all the while ended abruptly. Yet I don't despair. I always have the fancy that some day or other I shall solve that mystery."

The waiter brought the cocktails, and we raised our glasses.

"I drink, then, to that day, Sir Norman," my companion said.

"I am with you," I declared heartily.

We talked idly of various matters for a few moments—principally of golf, which I had been playing regularly in the south of France. There were several dinner-parties being given in the restaurant that evening, and some very beautiful women were in evidence. One in particular attracted my attention. She was tall, slender, slim, beautifully made. Her complexion was perfect, although a little colorless. Her strange-colored eyes had a nameless attraction. Her hair, beautifully coiffed, was just the shade of brown which appealed to me. She bowed to my companion as he passed, and joined a little group at the farther end of the hall. The last thing I noticed about her was her wonderful string of pearls.

"That is a very beautiful woman," I remarked. "Do you know who she is?"

"A South American widow—De Mendoza, her name is."

"You know her?"

"My humble apartment is on the same floor as her suite," my companion replied. "She is gracious enough sometimes to remember the fact that we meet occasionally in the lift."

My friend arrived and I made my adieux to my erstwhile golfing acquaintance. Somehow or other, my meeting with him had left an unpleasant impression behind it. It had forced my thoughts back to the humiliating recollection of the fact that the murderer of Richard Ladbroke still remained undiscovered, and that the man who had called himself Pugsley had walked away from detection under our very eyes and had never been heard of since.

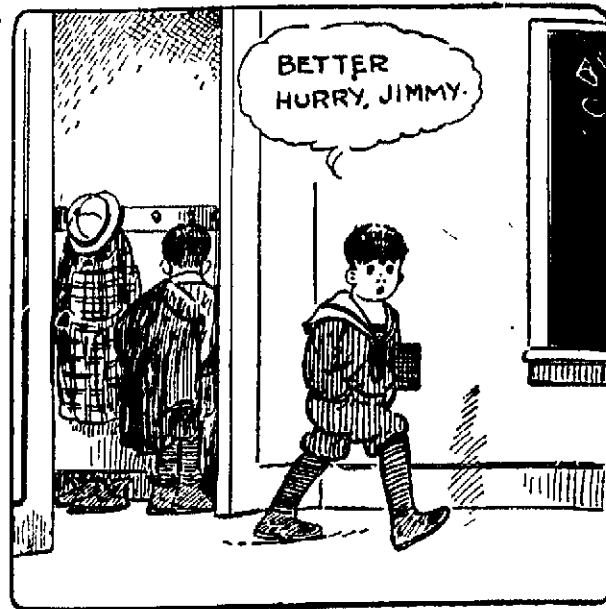

Among my fellow-guests was an official of the Home Office, and our conversation naturally drifted into the subject of social order.

"Your connection with Scotland Yard having long since ceased, Sir Norman," he remarked to me, "you will not be over-sensitive as to facts. The epidemic of crime which was raging about two years ago seems to have broken out again with exactly the same results. There are four undetected murders and five great robberies up to the debit of your late department. Your people believe that the same person is at the head of it who planned all those robberies eighteen months ago and escaped arrest by shooting the inspector."

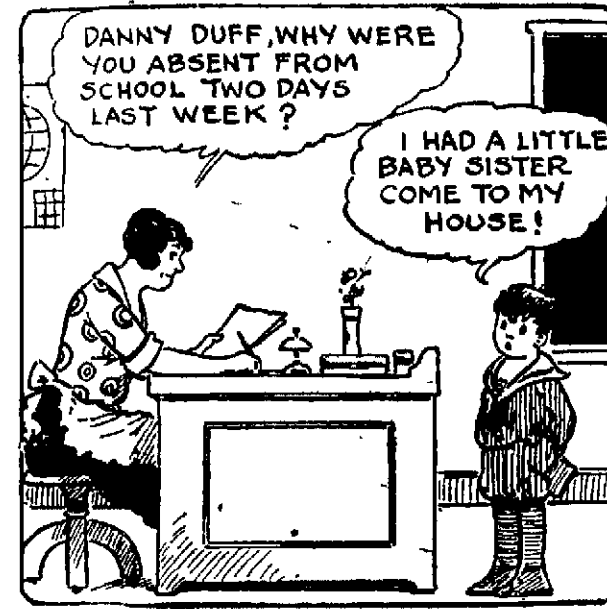

I affected to take only a casual interest in the information; but as a matter of fact, I was considerably moved. If the man who had last concealed his identity under the name of Pugsley, but whom I strongly suspected to be the notorious Michael Sayer, had really come out into the open once more, life would certainly possess a new interest for me during the next few months.

Monocle Is Last Word In Women's Fads

BY MARIAN HALE

In London women are wearing the sophomore horn-rimmed spectacles no longer. Nor are they lifting the supercilious lorgnette. That is, the smart ones aren't.

They've adopted the monocle. Beauty doctors, style designers and opticians all are wondering how far the fad will go, how long it will last, and what, if anything, they ought to do about it.

QUITE A THRILL

A New York actress who returned recently from "dear old Lunnun" gave her friends quite a thrill when she came ashore in her latest European gown—with a glass in one eye. The monocle never stood a chance in this country so long as it had to depend on men to popularize it. They had lost the nerve. But, women having taken it up, the style may be expected to spread. So it's as well to be prepared.

London women say the monocle gives a characteristic touch to the feminine get-up that can't be obtained from glasses of the double-barrel type.

LOTS OF INDIVIDUALITY
Glasses, it's pointed out, couldn't be counted on to give any variety of effects.

It's contended that monocles can. That is, as they've been modified by women, they can. Because women didn't adopt the monocle without trying to improve on it where they could.

Men were content to wear a uniform-size glass and to squint and squirm until it had fitted itself into the masculine face.

Women know that no fad productive of squinting and wrinkles is calculated to do them any good. So they have their glasses fitted with absolute accuracy, and when one of them is inserted into an eye, there it stays, without any facial readjustment at all.

SIZE AND SHAPE

A woman is careful to get just the right size glass in proportion to her face.

Furthermore, she can ruin her looks by wearing, say, a round glass when she ought to wear an oval one, or by framing it in a wide tortoiseshell rim when her style calls for no rim whatever.

Also, whereas the woman with a fair skin looks smart with the severe black watered ribbon which always has accompanied the monocle, hither, to the more frivolous blond may prefer a blue ribbon, to match the color of her eyes.

SUITS BORROWED

Whatever else she does, a woman must emphasize her own particular type in the selection of her glass.

The style is said to be so becoming to bobbed-haired girls that it promises to bring this style of coiffure back into popularity again.

At any rate, "Monocles for missus" is the latest cry.

KEEP MUSCLES ACTIVE TO RETAIN YOUTH

ROSE LAIRD

BY MARIAN HALE

Watch your muscles! When they show signs of relaxing, your youthful appearance is gone!

In every face there are three danger zones, according to Rose Laird, famous New York beauty specialist. Within these zones the muscles are likeliest to sag.

To forestall this tendency, Miss Laird says:

"First knead a cleansing cream of oil into the skin and pores, then wipe the face with a towel."

START THE MESSAGE

"Next dip the fingers in a good skin food, start at the middle of the chin and massage, upward and outward, toward the middle of the ears, with both hands, as outlined on the diagram—number one."

"Then start at the corners of the mouth—number two—and massage upward toward the nose, at the nostrils."

"Continue the massage across the cheeks, upward to the top of the ears—three."

AROUND THE EYES

"Now, begin at the eyes—four. Start at the corners, near the nose, and massage around the eyes very gently, in complete circles—first a half circle over the eye, just under the brow, and continue the movement under the eye. Be careful not to touch the eyeball.

DIAGRAM SHOWING HOW TO MASSAGE THE FACE ACCORDING TO ROSE LAIRD'S RULES.

"With the forehead—five—start in the center and massage upward and outward toward the temples."

"At the corners of the eyes, again massage upward and outward toward the temples—six."

"Use the thumb and forefinger to massage from the nostrils up toward the bridge of the nose—seven."

"For the throat, start in the center, just under the chin, and with long sweeping, circular movements, massage to the lower part of the neck—eight. Then continue with firm upward, circular strokes toward the under side of the ear—nine."

TEN MINUTES DAILY

"Every beauty seeker should make this program a part of each night's routine. In the morning the face should be gone over again with cleansing cream and an astringent should be applied, followed by an ice rub."

"Ten minutes daily devoted to this muscle building and you will control your own wrinkles."

Adventures Of The Twins

Little Boy Blue

When Nancy and Nick found that Mother Goose's broomstick was not to be found and that Humpty Dumpty knew nothing about it, they looked at the list Mother Goose had given them. The next name on it was Boy Blue.

"Where does he live?" asked Nancy.

"Just down the road," answered Humpty Dumpty. "But no doubt you'll find him fast asleep. He's likely not to know a thing about Mother Goose's lost broom."

The Twins thanked him, and departed.

Pretty soon they came to a haycock, and sure enough, they saw a pair of feet and heard someone snoring.

"It's too bad to wake him," said Nancy. "But we must. You twitch his nose, Nick, and I'll pull his ear and there! That's the way!"

Sure enough, Little Boy Blue sat up and rubbed his eyes.

"Hello there!" he said. "Who are you, and what's wrong?"

"We're looking for Mother Goose's magic broomstick," explained Nick. "Do you happen to know anything about it?"

"No," answered Boy Blue, shaking his head and yawning. "I don't. Why, where are the cows and the sheep. I don't see them anywhere." And picked up his horn and blew a long, loud blast.

The first thing the Twins knew he was running through the field for dear life, without so much as a goodbye.

"There are fine manners for you," declared Nick. "More interested in his own affairs than ours."

Nancy sighed. "Most everybody is, it seems," she said. "Come on. We'll never find the broom if we don't hurry."

APPLE FRITTERS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh
Mix a cup of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder. Then slowly add a well-beaten egg and two-thirds of a cup of milk, until a smooth batter is made.

Next add two apples, pared, cored and cut into small pieces, and drop the mixture from a tablespoon, having all the spoon well held, into hot fat.

Fry four minutes and drain on soft paper.

Sprinkle with powdered sugar. The fritters should be golden brown and crisp. Cooked in the center. It is best to try one, and see if it is cooked, before removing the others from the fat.

LETTER FROM MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HER SON, JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR SON:

I confess I had the greatest pang of my life when I read the enclosed clipping announcing your coming marriage to the daughter of some family totally unknown to me.

I had always dreamed that my son would be the first to confide in his mother when he found a girl that he would like to marry. It had been one of my illusions that you would bring the girl to me, your mother, before you even asked the momentous question. You might have your impulsive choice confirmed by the mature judgment of the mother who has your best interests at heart.

The enclosed clipping was sent to me by dear Priscilla Bradford, who is visiting your third cousin, Mary Alden, in Sharon.

Priscilla writes that your fiancée, Miss Hamilton, belongs to what is called the smart set of Sharon. She describes them as "a little coterie of people who all have a good deal of money which in most cases must make up for a lack of birth and breeding."

She did not say that the Hamiltons are one of these "cases" and I cannot bring myself to think that they are, for surely a lineal descendant of John Alden could not select a wife from those who by accident of money only have become a part of that more or less spurious class we call American aristocracy.

I am grievously hurt, John, that you have seen fit to let your mother become aware of this momentous event in your life through another. Surely, after you, I am the one most interested.

Priscilla said in her letter that you probably had written me, for, ever since Leslie (What a queer name!) Hamilton (Is she a descendant of that illegitimate Alexander Hamilton who fought a duel with Aaron Burr?) arrived home, there has been nothing in the society columns of the newspapers except accounts of the parties that have been given for her, and the elaborate trousseau she is preparing.

She even sent me a clipping which said that Miss Leslie had purchased a nightdress which was the replica of the wedding nightdress of a recent royal bride. I cannot bring myself to send that to a man, even if that man be my son. I hope that Miss Hamilton's father has properly advanced this insult to his daughter ere this, upon the editor of this terrible newspaper. John, up to this time, the women of your family have always prided themselves that their names have appeared in the newspapers only three times, and then only with a dignified reticence—once when they were born, once when they were married, and once when they were buried. I cannot get used to this blatant notoriety with which the modern young woman rushes into print. It seems to go with the paint and powder and vulgar dressing which is affected by the modern miss.

I was always in hope that when the time came for you to choose a wife, John, your choice would fall upon dear Priscilla Bradford. She has all the characteristics that go to make up a good wife. You have known her since you were children and she would supply that stability of character that I am seriously afraid you lack.

But alas, mothers are not consulted nowadays. I have known very little about you since you entered business at Albany. I expect I am old-fashioned, and out-of-date in both principles and ideals, but at least, John, I deserve some consideration for you, for I am your MOTHER.

* NIGHT WIFE FROM JOHN *
* ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. *
* MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT *

Forgive me, mother dear, for not writing before, but I wanted to send you full particulars when I wrote and I have been so busy that I did not seem to find the time for a long letter. Letter is now in the mails.

Do not let the insinuations of that narrow-minded Priscilla Bradford prejudice you against the sweetest girl in all the world. The paragraphs Priscilla sent you were just bits of the modern newspaper sensationalism. Leslie is probably the most popular girl in Sharon and as such every movement of her adorable eyelashes would be considered news at this time. Rest assured, mother dear, I would not have married Priscilla had she been the last woman on the earth. I know I am shocking you with this telegraph, but I am incensed at Priscilla Bradford and even a little annoyed at you, my dear mother, that you could not understand the animus of her communication. You will understand when you see Leslie why I love her, but I am sure you will not understand any more than I do, why such a wonderful girl as she could consent to marry such an average chap as your son JOHN.

TOMORROW: A letter from John Alden Prescott to his fiancée, Leslie Hamilton.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

In Iceland there is a queer little custom that is never neglected on a wedding day—that of breaking a small stick.

Together the bride and groom do this, but they are always careful to save the pieces.

Later, when they place the stick together, and throw it into the flames, this constitutes an annulment of the marriage.

OF WHITE SERGE

The perfectly plain frock of white serge is greatly favored at winter resorts. Its only trimming is a binding of ribbon or braid.

VOGUE FOR BLACK

There is a decided vogue for black trimming on dainty undergarments. Some of the newest satin corsets in flesh-pink are bound in black satin and trimmed with black net.

HAIRCLOTH TURBAN

The haircloth turban is returning to favor and is frequently trimmed with long, drooping feathers, or even ostrich.

ON NEW HATS

Ribbon is probably the most favored trimming for the first spring hats. It is used for bindings, cockades and bows.

Spoonful for a Penny Brings Quick Relief

Prove splendid laxative properties of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin by test

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Leona, Laude up on four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days.

Within 48 hours the men had coated tongues and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1873.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address: Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

Visits Harem Of Sultan To Learn Music

BY MARIAN HALE

Eva Gauthier, niece of Sir Wilfred Laurier, ex-premier of Canada, not only is a singer of strangely beautiful songs, but she's one of the few western women who has lived in a harem.

"What's more," she adds, "I was on excellent terms with every one of the harem owner's 400 wives."

"You see," Miss Gauthier explains, "I wanted to get away from the world in general and rest."

"Java intrigued me, so I journeyed thither."

Driving along the island roads around the city of Samarang, my attention was attracted by the odd instruments on which the natives played, and by their songs of many harmonies.

"They could tell me nothing about their music and I found that no white person had ever been able to understand it. Its quarter and eighth tones made it impossible."

APPEALED TO SULTAN

"So, in the hope of learning something concerning these strange modic combinations, I appealed to the sultan himself. I was well introduced and kindly received."

"My request for an opportunity to study the native music in a congenial atmosphere was granted."

"I was invited to stay at the palace—with the '400."

"The wives looked at me curiously at first. I was the only white woman who ever had entered the palace walls. But their shyness vanished when they learned that I meant no harm. They helped me in every way they could. At their command, the sultan's musicians played as often and as long as I wished."

MAY BECOME THE RAGE

"I became well acquainted with Javanese music, as well as with that of the Malay Peninsula."

"I have the sultan's permission to bring one of the Javanese bands to this country and I hope to avail myself of it in the future. I wouldn't be surprised if it should find sudden popularity. Just as Hawaiian music did a few seasons ago."

ERMINE AND VELVET

No trimming is more effective or stylish at the moment for black velvet than narrow bands of ermine or rabbit fur. Sometimes the fur is arranged in a large rosette and worn after the fashion of a corsage bouquet.

FASHION HINTS

BROWN LINGERIE
The craze for brown is now reflected in lingerie. Brown satin combination outfits trimmed with brown lace are the latest novelties. Brown embroidery is used effectively on pongee and ecru-colored undergarments.

FOR A SCHOOL GIRL
Alternate rows of red and white dots about the size of a dime trim a smart blue serge dress designed for a school girl.

MONOGRAMMED FROCK
The monogrammed frock is now the rage. Monograms range from the size of a dime to that of a plate. Several of the shops have added a department that will practically put on monograms while you wait.

COLORFUL BRACELETS
With sleeveless frocks the bracelet worn above the elbow is the correct bit of jewelry. These are adding width and color as the fad advances. Old silver bracelets, with large colored stones, are very much sought after.

VELVET TULIPS

Velvet tulips, life size, but in shades of brown and tan, make the very artistic trimming on a tan felt hat.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lgy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Household Suggestions

USE WHITE OF EGG

Dip slices of mush into white of egg before frying and they will be crisp and brown—just as you like them.

KEROSENE HELPS BURNS

The sting from a bad burn will often be alleviated by the application of kerosene.

REMOVING INK STAINS

To remove ink from silk, wool or cotton goods, saturate the spot with spirits of turpentine. Let it remain for some time, then rub with the hands until the stain is removed.

SUDS KILLS INSECTS

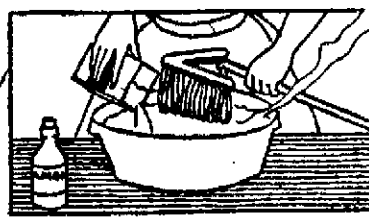

Wash your plants in soapuds occasionally to kill any insects and keep others away.

IN CUTTING BREAD

Before cutting freshly baked bread dip the knife in boiling water. You will not tear the loaf or have uneven, jagged crusts.

CLEANING THE MOP

Clean your oil mop with hot water, ammonia and a little washing powder.

You'll find this much less difficult than the ordinary soap and water method.

IN CANDY MAKING

When making candy, if you will add a tablespoon of cornstarch to every two cups of sugar, you will find the result greatly improved from the point of texture, creaminess and looks.

Here Are Hints For Housewife

Greasy paint or woodwork should be cleaned with a cloth dipped in turpentine and then wiped with a cloth dipped in clean water to which a little kerosene has been added.

Prolong the life of your new broom by soaking in strong salt water before using.

Before staining or varnishing an old floor which is scarred, mix putty with a darker stain, fill in the crevices or knot holes and varnish over. The results will be surprising.

If a glazed jug, pitcher or crock becomes rough or coated from water standing in it, a lemon solution made of the juice and rind cut and put in water and left for a day or two will clean it and make it as bright as new.

Adhesive plaster put on the under side of a cut in a piece of oilcloth will prevent the rent from spreading. Marks on paint made by scratching matches can be removed by rubbing with a cut lemon.

To sharpen a paring-knife, draw the edge of the knife quickly over the neck of crock.

Leather furniture lasts much longer and looks better if rubbed occasionally with castor-oil. Rub in well.

When putting anything very hot into glass jars or tumblers, put a silver spoon in too. It will prevent them from cracking.

Use modeling clay to stop a leak in

GOOD MANNERS

The hostess always prepares some sort of refreshments for her guests on her regular at-home day. In winter tea or hot chocolate, with waters or cake, may be served. Light sandwiches and bonbons are quite correct. In warm weather, if there are callers, iced tea, chocolate or punch are suitable.

BRONZE FOOTWEAR

Bronze slippers are to be very popular this summer—they have a way of being extremely adaptable and giving service with a number of costumes. Usually they are adorned with buckles.

TWO-TONED EFFECTS

The smart monogrammed blouse now comes in colors and is embroidered in a darker shade. Two-toned effects are very stylish.

a water-pipe. This does not harden and fall off as putty does and lasts for years. — From the March DESIGNER.
